TRUMAN VISITS STEVENSON, BUT SAYS HE STILL IS NEUTRAL IN RACE

Asserts if He Were From Illinois His Loyalty Would Be to 1952 Democratic Nominee.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29 (UP) Former President Harry S. Truman said today that "if it hadn't been for me" Adlai E. Stevenson never would have been nominated for President by the 1952 Democratic convention.

Truman told a press conference that he is neutral as far as the 1956 Democratic presidential candidate is concerned, and denied that he had ever pledged his support to Stevenson He said he would not give pre-convention support to any candidate.

Truman, who a few weeks ago said that if he were a New Yorker he would support Gov. Averell Harriman for the presidential nomination, said today before the press conference that if he were from Illinois his loy-alty would be to Stevenson. He said he has been urging Stevenson to announce his can-didacy for the nomination since last summer, and again called on Stevenson to make such an ouncement at a conference today.

Hopeful Sign but Give No Assurance as to Future-Benson to See Eisenhower.

By JAMES DEAKIN A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Oct. 29 — Hopes that President Eisenhower would make a full recovery from his heart attack were increased materially today as a result of a medical finding that his heart thus far has not been enlarged by his illness.

The announcement was ex pected to have far-reaching political implications, possibly strengthening the statements of those in the Republican party and elsewhere who want Mr. Eisenhower to run again.

Mr. Eisenhower to run again.

The final decision, however, rests with the President. His physicians have emphasized it will be two or three months before they can tell with any certainty whether his heart can stand the rigors of another campaign and possibly a second term.

'No Abnormalities.'

X-rays and fluoroscopic examinations of Mr. Eisenhower's heart and chest region, taken yesterday at Fitzsimons army hospital, "revealed no abnormalities," a hospital bulletin Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told report-ers the phrase "no abnormali-ties" meant the examinations showed "no enlargement of the beart".

Hagerty said the President's physicians told him "this was the most important announcement medically, at least this week".

The morning announcement said "The President's condition continues to progress satisfactorily without complications. After a good night's sleep of 7½ hours the President awoke feeling refreshed and in a cheerful mood.

"His morning examinations show that his pulse and blood pressure continue to be normal. His prothrombin time is at satisfactory level.
"His morning activities consisted of working with his personal secretary on routine Government business and dictation, or walking at will in his room "The President's condition or walking at will in his room and of painting."

Meanwhile, Mr. Eisenhower marked the end of his fifth week of convalescence and turned his attention to the critical farm price problem. He was scheduled to confer today with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

There was a possibility that Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, the President's brother, might sit in on the conference.

Gift' to Mexico. Giff to Mexico.

The President announced also that Mexico will not be asked to pay for food and medical supplies sent by the United States to the Tampico area during a recent flood emergency. The supplies, valued at about half a million dollars, will be paid for with money available under the agricultural development act and from the development act and from the President's emergency fund, Hagerty said. President's emergency fund, Hagerty said.

Discussing results of the X-rays and fluoroscopic examinations, Hagerty said the heart shadow which they revealed was compared with the heart shadow shown on an X-ray taken at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington last Aug. 1, a little less than two months before the President was stricken. The comparison indicated that the shadow cast by Mr. Eisenhower's heart at that time was the same size as that revealed by yesterday's examinations, Hagerty reported.

Fire Marshal Walter Bergman disclosed yesterday there had been a minor fire in the apartment, occupied by Mas. Barbara Dawson and her five children, Negroes, last Oct. 15.

Had it been a fire of more magnitude, Bergman said, the firemen might have seen more violations of the building code.
Following the fire Thursday, firemen found defective wiring and carboard box partitions for walls. The ceiling in some places in the basement was only 5 feet 2 inches from the floor. The building code requires basement ceilings to be 7½ feet high.

Firemen cautioned Mrs. Daw-

Russia and the Western powers presented rival programs yesterday for solution of Europe's problems. Diplomatic quarters said the two camps were almost as far apart as they ever have been.

Molotov's program yirfually was word for word the same as that offered to the West by the Soviets at the July summit meeting.

It called for an end to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization after creation of an all-European security treaty in which the two parts of divided Germany would each have membership.

The Western program took precisely the opposite approach. It called first for a solution of the problem of German unification and offered security guardines for Russia, Poland, and Czechoslovakia which would become fully effective only after Germany had been united and had agreed to join NATO.

Dulles, Macmilian and Pinay defended NATO as the foundation of security for the West which also would serve as a practical curb on any German militarist impulses in the future.

Ready for Any Eventuality, Egyptian Spokesman Says. CAIRO, Oct. 29 (AP) — An Egyptian spokesman declared today "we are ready for any eventuality."

Referring to fighting which has occurred at a frontier trou-ble spot—the El Auna-Nizana demilitarized zone—the spokes-man told reporters:

"It is up to the United Nations to ease the tension in the zone. The situation along the front there is very tense."

On Sept. 21, Egypt and Israel agreed to withdraw their troops agreed to withdraw their troops from the zone at the request of Gen. E. L. M. Burns, the U.N., truce supervisor. The Egyptians allege, however, that the Is-raelis kept their troops in the zone, disguised as police.

The Egyptian spokesman said that while the El Auja zone is actually occupied by the Israells, the Egyptians are reinforcing their positions along their own frontier facing El Auja.

"The Israelis object to this, declaring that our positions threaten them," the spokesman added. "But if they withdrew added. But it they withdrew from El Auja, they would be so far from us there would be no threat. Their objections prove they are in the demili-tarized area, thereby violating Conditions were aggravated by an exceptional number of vehicles pulling up to curbs and stopping, officers reported. Members of car pools, who normally meet on parking lots, instead waited under shelter while the driver got the car and picked up each member.

REPORTS HE WAS ABDUCTED JUDGE HULEN GETS PLAQUE AS 'OUTSTANDING JURIST

United States District Judge Rubey M. Hulen yesterday received from alumni of the Kansas City school of law a plaque honoring him as an "outstanding lawyer and jurist."

The plaque was presented in Judge Hulen's chambers by Miss Eileen Fleming, president of the alumni association, and Ruby D. Garrett, a past president. Judge Hulen was graduated cum laude from the Kansas City school in 1915.

Judge Hulen was appointed United States district judge in July 1943 by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. He obtained his law degree by studying at night school.

Thirty-one indictments were returned yesterday by the Madison County grand jury, which has been investigating the murder of Bobby Gene Carr, St. Louis taxicab driver.

All indictments were suppressed pending arrest of those charged. State's Attorney Fred P. Schuman would not reveal whether any indictments were voted in connection with the murder of Carr, whose body was found in his automobile July 21 near Livingston, Ill. He had been shot to death.

The grand jury, which made its return to Circuit Judge Quinten Spivey at Edwardsville, heard about 70 witnesses in the Carr killing. Murder warrants have been issued against Louis D. Shoulders, Bobby Davis Martin, George (Stormy) Harvill and Thomas Fiss. A motorist found Nelson staggering on the highway near the base shortly before 5 am., and the car he had been using was nearby. He was taken to the base hospital.

He said two men entered the building, forced him to change from his uniform into ordinary clothing and then take them to the East Side. He was not robbed, and St. Clair county sheriff's deputies were unable to learn a reason for the abduction.

Gov. David R. Francis of Missouri, died last night at his home near Miami, Fla, St. Louis relatives were informed. Mr. Francis, 72 years old, had suffered several paralytic strokes. He was born in St. Louis and was graduated from Yale University in 1907. Mr. Francis entered the brokerage firm of Francis Bro. & Co., founded by his father in 1877. He became a senior partner in the firm, which had its offices and board room at 222 North Fourth street when the company was sold in 1942.

48. The questions pertained to nine instances of unreported cash premiums alleged to have been paid Cooper by customers buying hard-to-get automobiles in the postwar period. The defendant was followed on the witness stand by four character witnesses.

Eleven witnesses supported the Government's charges that premiums up to $380 above invoice prices were paid Cooper for automobiles. A Lebanon, Mo., dealer testified his firm paid about $100,000 in premiums in the 1945-48 period, during which 445 machines were purchased.

Cooper contended the Government witnesses "could be mistaken," and he called one witness, Robert Ellis, costume jewelry salesman, "a liar." Ellis testified at the trial he paid $300 above list price for a new Ford in 1947.

Burger and Cooper are under Indictment on charges of evading income taxes of the firm.

M. Ray Crocker, another Burger business associate, is also under a perjury charge. These cases are pending.

Cooper lives at 1515 South Rock Hill road, Webster Groves. In 1944 Mr. Francis moved to Coconut Grove, Fla., a Miami suburb. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Francis, of Coconut Grove; two daughters, Mrs. Howard Williams, Sarasota, Fla., the former Jane Perry Francis, Veiled Prophet Queen in 1930, and Mrs. Miriam Francis Ray, Pinchurst, N.C.: and three brothers, Charles B. and Thomas Francis, HUMAN RELATIONS GRANT

Also please note, my house has an assessed valuation of less than $5000.

as many of my neighbors' are double and triple that is inconceivable that they cannot find something more equitable than the blanket assessment of $6. WILLIAM M. PACKER.

Differences Shape Up

France, Britain and the United States, on one side, and Russia, on the other, now have put their proposals for an international settlement on the table at Geneva. Both are supposed to assure peace for at least 50 years, but on a number of important points they do not mesh. Only by a super-miracle could one side be induced to accept in full the proposals of the other. Thus the situation is just what it was expected to be before the foreign ministers came together.

The Western proposals are essentially those made by Prime Minister Eden at last July's "summit" conference with the added feature of a radar-guarded buffer zone. The Russians sug-gest a general anti-aggression treaty with committees and conferences to implement it. They would have China as an "observer," but this may be a bargaining point included only so that it may be dropped.

The real differences arise over the West's demand for early reunification of Germany Russia's insistence on the dissolution of NATO. While not absolutely opposing German reunifica tion, the Russians would launch their plan with both West and East Germany represented. The other three powers continue to insist on the reorganization of Germany through free election and they certainly will not give up NATO which they do not regard as an offensive alliance.

Under the circumstances, 'perhaps the most that can now be expected, except for some im provement in trade and cultural relations, is an agreement "in principle." This would enable committees to work on various problems, preliminary to further meetings of the foreign ministers. It is worth remembering that the chiefs of last summer indicated that it probably would take a period of years to eliminate all the complications of the cold war. The process may well be like the negotiations from 1636 to 1648 which finally brought the signing of the Treaty of Westphalia and the end of the devastating Thirty Years' War.

Not only must the direct differences between the parties be considered, but also their own special political problems. Thus the Western proposals do not mention the Warsaw pact of the Soviet satellites even though Paris, London and Washington cannot slam the door of hope on these people. Likewise Russia, which has had no great success in turning East Germany into satellite, may avoid quick relaxation of its grip on the area simply because of the trouble this might touch off in Poland and in the Balkans. Here it is imperative that no fundamental principles be sacrificed just for a chance to sign a document.

The Western ministers have decided not to make the threat of war in the Middle East, heightened by Communist arms sales to the Arabs, a direct issue. Nevertheless this does make their work more difficult. But it has been eased a bit by the French parliament's vote of confidence in the Faure government. Foreign Minister Pinay was not reduced to the role of spectator at the very outset. Premier Faure pressing for early elections, the French role still is somewhat uncertain.

this need not be a major impediment at Geneva. It seems more important to avoid the "all-ornothing" attitude Mr. Pinay took in his opening statement. The facts simply do not permit high hopes for great accomplishments. But small gains and a slow pace need not be disdained. Assuming with Senator George, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, that it is now possible to put at least limited confidence in the Russians, continued negotiations are worthwhile if only for the concurrence that they are not to be interrupted by atomic war.

Change at Civic Progress

Civic Progress, Inc., has a new head. Powell McHaney, president of the General American Life Insurance Co., who has presided over the group of community leaders working for the long-term development of St. Louis, has retired after two years. The new president is Edwin M. Clark, head of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Both men have put their hands to many good works and currently Mr. Clark is chairman of St. Louis's first United Fund campaign.

A change in the membership of the 20 men who comprise Civic Progress results from the death of Edgar E. Rand. president of the International Shoe Co. As Mr. Rand was only 50 years old, it was expected that he might serve the community a long time. Now another worker achieve in St. Louis in the years ahead and Civic Progress, Inc. is, by design and mission, an instrument to lead in bringing it about.

The discussions about the question at the Milk Industry Foundation in St. Louis last week brought back a memory. Some 25 years ago a reporter was sent to cover a luncheon meeting. The 50 people at the luncheon were all connected with the dairy industry as producers, handlers or consumers. The theme of the talks was then as it is now How to increase milk consumption. After the luncheon the reporter went to his newspaper office and wrote his news story. The last tence, quoted from memory, was substantially as

An Honest and Costly Mistake

House investigators have finished a four-day hearing on the Demon jet fighter fiasco, and the nub of their conclusions so far is that somebody made a mistake—variously estimated as a $78,000,000, a $154,000,000 or a $200,000,000

There is no satisfactory conclusion as to who was responsible for the error, or as to what it cost the public.

Sixty of the early F3H-1 Demon fighters made by McDonnell Aircraft Corp. were purchased by the Navy before production was halted. The hearings developed a tendency to blame the Westinghouse J-40 engine, which admittedly was not powerful enough for the planes, whose weight had been increased by a Navy decision to change the plane's function

The salient question, which was never adequately answered, was why the Navy went on with the Demon program after early crashes indicated that the plane did not have enough power for safe flight. Blaming the engine does not explain the Navy's delay in cutting short a wasteful program.

R. Adm. James S. Russell, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, said the jet plane deal an honest mistake. Congressman Chet Holifield of California, head of the investigating committee, said it was an honest mistake. Granting it was an honest mistake, what assurance does the public have now that such costly procurement errors cannot happen again?

Aid to Distressed Areas

No doubt about it, the Eisenhower Adminis-tration will have to face the dread charge of New Dealism for backing a plan to aid areas of ic unemployment.

The Administration got accused of that crime in 1953 just for proposing to channel defense contracts into these areas, its own Senate leader, Senator Knowland, being one of those who raised the cry of "Socialism." Now the Administration is proposing to do much more.

Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Council of conomic Advisers says a bill will be introduced in January to set up a new Government agency with power to give economic and technical assistance to the depressed areas. On a visit to Denver, Dr. Burns reported the President gave the plan his "strong approval."

New Dealish or not, the plan does have great merit and we hope the Administration sticks with it. It is not quite as new and unprecedented as Dr. Burns indicated at his news con ference. Republican Senator Frederick Payne of Maine urged a similar plan in a speech last July. About the same time, Senator Douglas of Illinois and seven other Democrats introduced a bill to set up just such a "depressed areas administration" as Dr. Burns now proposes. But regardless of authorship, the idea that the Federal Government should help such areas is just as sound as the idea that the Federal Government should act to sustain full employment in other ways.

Most of these areas, such as the coal towns of Southern Illinois and West Virginia, and the textile towns of New England, are faced with the difficult problem of developing a new economic base to take the place of industries they previously relied on. While they can do much on their own initiative-and Southern Illinois especially has done a great deal-the full resources of the Federal Government can add a The object, as both Dr. Burns and Senator Douglas have put it, is to help the depressed areas help themselves.

Tragedy on North Sarah

The tragic rooming house fire at 1805 North Sarah street, where four small children died in their basement rooms, was not the first such horror to occur in St. Louis. And what is worse it is not likely to be the last.

Senseless calamities like this one take place here with monotonous regularity. At the time they happen they are deplored by one and all. but the event soon fades from public conscious ness. Nobody worries until the next bad fire.

An aroused public can demand and get the really massive effort that probably is required to eliminate many of the conditions on which these tragedies feed. This will require first a block-by-block check to ferret out all rooming lieved to be operating illegally and therefore without benefit of inspection by the proper au thorities. These operators should be driven out of business; their establishments in all too many cases are potential death traps.

There also ought to be a sufficient number of building and rooming house inspectors on the job to keep the legal operators from violations that could jeopardize the safety of their guests. Director of Public Safety Sestric says his staff will have to be doubled to do the job the building code requires. If that is the case, then double it! Otherwise we may expect to be reading about another tragedy like that on North Sarah any day.

77 Per Cent Honest

A mark of 70 per cent is generally regarded as a passing grade in schools, but we were under the impression that when it came to honesty and paying debts a somewhat better performance

But lo. New Jersey is congratulating itself that 77 per cent of the motorists who use its Garden State Parkway put their dimes in the collection box in the small hours of the morning when there is no attendant on duty to demand the toll. The average was established by checking the dimes against the number of cars recorded by an electric treadle, thus recording the drivers' respect for the honor system.

Far be it from us to suggest that maybe seven of those 77 per cent are "wise" characters who do not believe that those empty toll stations are only snares to tempt them while they are being watched by radar. After all, New Jersey pride can't stand up with a showing of much less than 77 per cent honest.

By Its Own Boot-Straps

A significant and extremely cheering economic achievement is in the making in India. Economic theorists to the contrary, the Indian economy is proving that it is possible for a nation to lift itself virtually by its own boot-straps. What is more, the Indian progress has been so rapid that at times it has showed the highest rate of gain of any in the world!

At the same time India has been exporting technical assistance to several countries in South and Southeast Asia. While this kind of help has been on a relatively small scale, still it will come as somewhat of a surprise to many Westerners After all, India is one of the world's largest "have-not" nations.

How have the Indians been able to do so much with only a bare minimum of foreign help? E. P. W. DaCosta, writing in the Manchester Guardian, gives two reasons: First is the capacity of the Indian economy to Increase production of food and industrial raw materials such as cotton and jute; second is the relatively small amounts of capital currently required to make significant gains. For example, the change-over to the more intensive Japanese method of rice production was accomplished with almost no capital expenditure: the new method yielded nearly a million extra tons of rice in 1954-55.

Whether India can continue to finance its own development at the present rate without outside help is a question. But certainly foreign investment would help to accelerate the Indian advance. And since a great many people in the Far East are measuring the Indian advance against that of the Chinese under Communism the free world might be wise to see to it that the Indians do not have to stand alone much longer.

Days like these, those WPA leaf-raking jobs don't seem so soft to a householder.

Russia's Farm Problem Is Long-Run

No 'crisis,' but wheat production has hardly increased in 20 years while population has grown, and corn strains are inferior, says editor who visited Russia; anything we can do to spur interest in better diet and consumer goods will be healthy. Lauren K. Soth, Editor of the Editorial Pages of The Des Moines Register and Tribune Agriculture continues to be the Achilles heel of Russian Communism, to use Barbara Ward's expression. Farms and farmers just do not fit well into the doctrinaire design of the Communist and farmers just do not fit well into the doctrinaire design of the Communist state as drawn up by Lenin and Stalin.

Farm efficiency in the Soviet Union today lags far behind that of the United States and the West generally, exerting a severe drag on the Soviet economy as a whole.

It would be a mistake, however, to assume that the Soviet Union faces an econ om ic "crisis" because of its agricultural difficulties. In a 36-day, 9000-mile tour of the principal farm areas of the U.S.S.R. as a member of the American farm delegation. I saw no signs of food shortage, of disaffection of serious searcity of essential farm of disaffection among farmers or age, of disaffection among tarmers or of serious scarcity of essential farm equipment or supplies.

The trouble with Soviet agriculture is not of an emergency nature; it is long-run. It is a problem of stagnation and lack of progress.

Fewer Cattle Than in 1928

Nikita S. Khrushchev, the Co has reported that livestock ll are below the pre-collecimbers still are tivization level of 1928. According to in Moscow (basic agricultural data are considered state secrets in the Soviet Union and have not been published), grain output last year was around 100 million tons, or about the same as in the late '30s. rough estimates given our delegat

Grain output apparently has hung around the 100-million-ton level for nearly 20 years while the Soviet popula-tion has been growing at a rapid rate.

The effect of this has been to reduce virtually eliminate Soviet grain experts. It also has prevented any improvement in the quality of the Russel dist.

The average citizen of the U.S.S.R. probably gets two thirds of his calories in the form of bread and another 10 per cent in potatoes, High-protein foods are scarce and high-priced.

70,000,000 Acres Opened Up

Khrushchev's aim is to expand grain utput so as to provide more reserve nd also to permit a growth in livestock roduction. He has launched two new, randiose programs to accomplish these note.

The first is the new lands develop The lirst is the new lands develop-ment program in Kazakhstan and west-ern Siberia. About 70,000,000 acres of virgin prairie land are being plowed up, and new state farms established in these areas.

The new lands are to be devoted largely to wheat. If the program is successful, presumably this will release land in other parts of the Soviet Union for the raising of corn and other feed corns for livesteet. crops for livestock

Much of the land of Kazakhstan and western Siberia resembles the soils of North Dakota, Saskatchewan and Al-berta. It is deep, black, fertile loam. The growing season is short, and the moisture is scanty.

Still, over a period of years the Russians will get lots of wheat from this territory if they are willing to put the capital into it and if they can keep people who work there satisfied. Right now living conditions in the newly opened areas are dreadful.

The second of Khrushchev's programs is the planting of corn. This program suffers from indiscriminate planting of the crop everywhere, on Moscow orders, regardless of local conditions. We saw cornfields even in Siberia.

Corn acreage has jumped from 11.-000,000 in 1954 to 45,000,000 in 1955. Much of this new acreage is not pro-ducing feed worth the cost of harvest this year. Soviet corn production is limited also by the poor seed varieties available. So far as we could tell, the U.S.S.R. has no hybrid varieties such as those which have greatly increased yields in United States.

Some research in hybridization is going on, but the Russians are at least 25 years behind the United States in the development of inbred lines for crossing to make hybrids.

Peasants Have Higher Incomes

This backwardness may be partly a result of Russia's self-imposed isolation from Western scientists. It may also be a consequence of the political domination over science, especially the promotion of Lysenko's doctrines of plant breeding.

Current agricultural policy in the Soviet Union strongly favors the farmer. State purchase prices have been raised, and compulsory collection of crops re-duced. duced. Collective farms we visited all report ed substantial increases in income in the last two years. In addition, the in-dividual peasant has been given the opportunity for more income from his private plot and livestock. His taxes have been reduced, and his required deliveries to the state are nominal. He can sell his meat or milk on the free market at a very good price.

Fresh meat, milk, eggs, fruits and vegetables were available only in the free markets of the cities we visited. State stores, except in Moscow, had

'There Is No Food Crisis'

Free market prices were high—for example, half a day's pay for a pound of meat. This inflation in food prices is a bonanza to farmers and is encouraging increased output

Bread appeared plentiful and cheap in the state stores. We found little evi-dence of a free market in wheat. Where wheat was sold on the free market, prices were no higher than the state purchase prices—another indication that there is no food crisis in Russia today.

The Soviet Union has a long way to go to bring agriculture up to Western standards of efficiency. About 40 to 45 per cent of the U.S.S.R. labor force is used in farming, as against only 12 per cent in the United States.

Anything this country can do to stinulate the interest of the Russians in beter diets and more consumer goods with the healthy. The appetite for a better living tends to grow the more it is satisfied.

(196-195) by James Boyer Mar. (Inferno Preil, 17 pg)... 72, 12 These books of verse are from "little" magazine presses, a type of enterprise which often publishes work by promising new writers. The poets represented here are all "new poets" in the sense that their work has not yet reached the mass audience a large publisher could offer. Their verse has not been gathered in book form but has received widely scattered circulation in magazines.

Barriss Mills, latest of the group, has been writing for publication little over a year and his verse has appeared in half a dozen of the better known American quarterlies. The 14 poems in "The Black and White Geometry" show versatility in style, ranging from straightforward realism to a surreal quality of harsh, even violent imagery.

Cid Corman and James Boyer May are editors themselves, both well known to the precarious trade of the little magazine. Corman's "The Precisions' conains 16 poems written in the American tradition of Frost and W. C. Williams. Deceptively simple but rich in color and overtones, these pleces should help to dispet the notion that poetry must be obscure in order to be modern. Boyer May, on the other hand, uses a high ratio of ideas to images. His verse is more austract and probably more advanced than that of Mills and Corman. Yet all of these poets are vigorous and original. CHARLES GUENTHER.

SLOW DIES THE THUNDER by Helen Topping Miller. (The Bobbs-Marrill Co., 110 pgs., 33.50.) This is a charming romantic novel of the Revolutionary War in the South, beginning with the siege of Charles Town, S.C., and ending a few months later with the battle of King's Mountain in October 1780.

The heroine is Elliott Deadrick, well-brought-up young lady, daughter of a British army officer. Elliott, however, has been raised in America by her uncle and aunts and considers herself a Patriot. The hero is Michael Callaway, a scout attached to the American Army, whom Elliott meets when he stumbles, wounded, into her back yard.

Although the author does not give a blow-by-blow account of the battles, she does draw a very vivid picture of the desolation and fear of the South as Colonel Patrick Ferguson and "No-Quarter" Tarleton ravage the countryside with their mounted troops after the fall of Charles Town. Pitted against these forces are the mountain men under Shelby and Sevier. Under-fed and under-Shelby and Sevier. Under-fed and underforces are the mountain men under Shelby and Sevier. Under-fed and under-armed, their courage and determination beat the British at King's Mountain. An interesting story for readers of all ages. An interesting story for readers of MARION E. WEIR ages.

The first half of this narrative is a 124-page paragraph recording the tenuously connected ideas in what is left of the mind of an obscene, senile, degenerate cripple named Molloy. Throughout Part I he is looking for his mother. He has also found her and is now living in her room, if he is not already dead. Part II is divided into paragraphs, perhaps as sardonic proof by Mr. Beckett that he can be quite as much the obscurantist with paragraphs as without. In that he can be quite as much the obscurantist with paragraphs as without. In this section Jacques Moran who has not appeared until now (at least not by name) is the protagonist. Moran is a policeman or spy or agent for someone or something. A messenger arrives with instructions for him to find Molloy.

The reader is not told why, nor what Moran is to do with him if he finds him. All of this is by Samuel Beckett, Dublin born, onetime secretary to James Joyce. It is a negativistic hash of Joyce, Kafka, Dostoevski, and who-knows-wfoelse, signifying nothing. That is apparently its intention, to signify nothing.

Cellist Plays Saint-Saens Concerto With Poise and Finish.

By THOMAS SHERMAN

Leonard Rose, the first solo-ist of the St. Louis Symphony season, played the Saint-Saens Concerto in A Minor for Violoncello with a gratifying poise and finish at yesterday aftermon's concert in Kiel Auditor-ium. The remainder of the pro-gram, conducted by Vladimir Golschmann, consisted of Tchaikowsky's "Pathetique" Symphony and Hadyn's "Suro-rise" Symphony. The latter has rise" Symphony. The latter has been played so infrequently at these concerts that it almost had the force of a novelty. The Saint-Saens concerto is not a sensational work in either a figurative or a literal sense The chorus has been rehearsed under the direction of Robert V. Cloutier, minister of music of Ladue Chapel. Familiar hymns and spirituals will be sung from 7:30 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The continuously clear projection which was one of the distinguishing features of Rose's performance could be attributed in part to the open scoring for the orchestra. One had the impression, however, that the carrying quality of his sound would have prevailed under any conditions. In any case he produced a very agreecase he produced a very agree-able and resonant tone; and, what is more to the point, employed it with a fine, artistic discrimination.

His way of "making the most" of these was to emphasize their grace by subtle graduation of volume. Golschmann's treatment of the "Pathetique" was seemingly motivated by the desire to keep its pathos within bounds or to transform it perhaps into a kind of poignant lyricism. COLLEGE JUNIOR WINS AWARD FOR United Church Women to Mark YOUTH PRAYER World Community Day Friday

lege students to write a prayer for Catholic Youth Week was won by Miss Kitty Fields, junior at Maryville College of the Sacred Heart, 2900 Meramec street. Her home is in Bethesda, Miss Fields's Prayer for Cathedral, 3637 Lindell boule-vard, by Ralph E. Wagers of Chicago. The lecture is spon-sored by the eight Churches of Christ, Scientist, in St. Louis. Wagers has been engaged in the public practice of Christian Science for 30 years and a mem-ber of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship since 1946. Miss Fields's Prayer for Youth follows:

"Lord Jesus Christ, as modern youth we pray that we may strive to imitate and attain those qualities and virtues which you possessed as the Divine Youth. We implore you especially for purity that we may aspire to those things most pleasing to the Father—for detachment that we may not become absorbed solely in the things of this world—and for submission that we may have the wisdom to seek God's will and the courage to follow it."

CHURCH NOTICES

United Church Women of St. Louis will observe World Community day Friday. Meetings at 10:30 a.m. and 1:15 p.m. will be held at Union Methodist Church, Watson road and Pernod avenue.

Out of the west a 20-mile-an hour wind added sharpness to the bleak 45-degree afternoor as the Illini sought their fourth victory in six starts.

The Boilermakers, not quite so good in an overall record with 2-2-1, had a league mark of 1-1-1 and were rated even with illinois, which had won only one conference game and lost two.

FIRST QUARTER

Illinois won the toss and ose to kick off with the wind.

Illinois won the toss and chose to kick off with the wind. Murakowski returned Miller's kickoff to the Purdue 20. On third down Dawson's short pass intended for Lundy was incomplete, and Brideweser punted dead on the Illinois 45.

A second-down Lindbeck pass to McMullen got 13 yards and af irst down at the Purdue 39. After three rushes made eight yards, Jefferson on fourth down found a big hole over right tackle for eight yards and another, first down.

But then Lundy smeared lindbeck for a 13-yard loss and on the third down a Lindbeck ass was intercepted by Brideweser on the Purdue 15 and oturned to the Boliermaker 42. But the play was ruled out.

But the play was ruled out. Purdue's right end was de-ected holding and, after a conrence of several minutes cong officials, it was decided e intraction occurred before interception. So it was Illi-is's ball, third and eight, on Whitmer picked up nine in two carries and Murakowski harely made first down. Murakowski on a draw play made eight, on second down and then took is handoff for 6 more at midfield. Dawson passed again to Khoenle for 16. Two rushes got sty yards and then Dawson's jump pass to Khoenle made six at the Illinois 22. On the next four downs Purdue got nine and a fraction yards, Nitschke and Walsh stopping Dawson's attempted sneak, and Illinois took over on 18-13 with 1:30 left in the first half.

Illinois moved from its 13 to its 33 before time ran out. Score at half: Purdue 7, Illinois 0.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 29 (AP)-Unbeaten Navy, the nation's fourth ranking team, and Notre Dame's once-beaten Irish met in Notre Dame stadium un-der cloudy skies this afternoon before a capacity crowd of 57,000.

A chilly southwest wind swept the field and dropped the temperature to 41 degrees. On on-and-off morning drizzle ceased at game-time but the field, under wraps all night, was in excellent condition.

The Middles were seeking their sixth triumph of the season and their ninth straight since Notre Dame beat them, 6-0, last year.

Notre Dame took a 4-1 record into the game, having lost to Michigan State, 21-7.

FIRST QUARTER.

Neither team scored but Navy reached Notre Dame's 19 after a fumble by Morse before Hornung broke up the drive by intercepting Welsh's pass on his four. $282,370 in Prizes Today In World's Richest Race

CAMDEN, N.J., Oct. 29 (UP)-The richest purse in the history of horse racing goes up for grabs today when 12 two-yearolds run for a $282,370 prize and the divisional championship as well in the third running of the fabulous Garden State Stakes.

Ten of the young horses have a chance to haul down a record winner's purse of $157,918.50 but the two others, made supplementary nominations at a cost of $10,000 each, "only" cost of $10,000 each, "only" can net $147,918.50.

The previous record gross purse was the $289,965 posted for this same race a year ago. Summer Tan earned a net winner's purse of $151,282.

The D. & H. Stable of J. C. Dudley of Stälwater, Okla, and B. T. Heath of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Conedian Lou Costello made their young horses, Needles and Bold Bazooka, respectively, supplementary entrants.

weight Jimmy Slade of New York as one of boxing's greatest spoilers.

Slade, unranked in the heavyweight division, punched his way to a split, 10-round decision over third-ranked Jackson last night in one of the year's greatest upsets.

It was Slade's second victory in three meetings with the Far Rockaway, N.Y., contender. He also outpointed Jackson in a New York bout in April, 1954, and then dropped a decision to his in-and-out rival last spring.

In last night's "rubber match," Slade once again called on his greater ring experience to outmaster Jackson's brute strength and whirl-wind tactics. There were not knockdowns, but Slade was groggy and bleeding from the nose at the finish.

Referee Tony Lazranche cast cast the deciding vote in Slade's favor. He gave Jarring Jimmy 98 points and awaried Jackson 194 under Ohio's 10-point "must" scoring system.

Judge Charlie Bill also favored Slade, 98-95, while Judge Herb Willams voted for Jackson, 96-95.

Slade piled up his important points during the early rounds, tired slightly in the middle sessions and then had to overcus the care of the Mississippi valley and also over the adjoining Candian provinces. They were in the 20s at most stations, with the lowest 22 degrees at Medicine Hat, in Canada, and at Williston, N.D.

19-to-0 Victor Over Cleveland

By Harold Tuthill

The duck season opened yesterday and appropriately yesterday and appropriately enough for our fine feathered friends it rained cats and dogs, as the saying goes, but it hardly was a day for football. Beaumont defeated Cleveland, 19 to 0 last night at the Public Schools Stadium before a handful of spectators.

Six schools will hope for better weather today when a matinee twin bill and a night game are scheduled. Southwest met Vashon in the first game, Sumner will meet McKinley at 3 and Central, needing a victory to

Central, needing a victory to move into a first-place tie, will oppose Roosevelt at 8.

Beaumont, now 2-1 in the race, could ill afford another race, could ill afford another defeat so maybe it's just as well that they tangled with Cleveland on a muddy field. The Dutchmen might have made the outcome much closer if they had been able to open up with their passing attack before the closing phases of the third quarter when they completed a 44-yarder from Roger Lively to Jerry Simmons for a first down at the Beaumont 23.

Another Lively to Simmons pass, good for 16 yards, advanced the Orange and Blue to the eight-yard line early in the vanced the Orange and Blue to the eight-yard line early in the fourth quarter. Cleveland slogged down to the one-yard line but failed to tally.

Cleveland was in trouble when its offense went backwards midway in the first quarter and then the Dutchmen exchanged fumbles with the Jackets, Beaumont taking over at the Cleveland 21. The Jackets punched the ball across early in the second quarter, Bob Brand going over from about 20 yards out.

Later the Jackets recovered Later the Jackets recovered another Cleveland miscue and Leo De Vere set up a second TD with a 32-yard run to the Cleveland three. He scored from two yards out.

The last touchdown came when Jim Hennessey returned a punt 55 yards in the third quarter. Jerry Nauert plunged the extra point.

Beaumont Team Gregory First as Sumner Team Belleville Is Wins in District Cross Country Winner Over

Talk about a crossed-up cross-country race, that's what developed in the district meet which was run in the rain yesterday afternoon at Forest Park. For a while an unhappy band of Sumner athletes, believing they had lost to Hadley Tech, bemoaned their apparent defeat. That was before an official check was made of the results and it was found that Sumner had won after all.

after all.

The confusion came when Sumner coach Warren St. James and Hadley coach J. L. Hutton compared the cards turned in by the runners. St. James hastily tallied 51 points for Sumer and Hutton got 49 for the Hadley total which made Tech the apparent winner in a meet where the team with the lowest total is first.

The district officials took the

'HURRYING' HOME

Rush hour traffic in glittering stage of confusion at Twelfth boulevard and Locust street shortly after 5 p.m. yesterday. In a hurry to get home on a rainy afternoon, motorists who attempted to "beat" the lights have blocked cross traffic on Locust street and at the St. Charles street intersection in the background. Much of the downtown district was enmeshed in similar traffic snarls and drivers making their belated way into county

TRAVEL HAZARD

Big Canada goose being restrained by R. D. Van Dusen, biologist at the Kellogg Bird Sanctuary near Battle Creek, Mich., while Ward Rudersdorf paints identification marks on the captive's neck, back and sides. Grounded while traveling from his northern summer quarters, the goose got the distinctive paint treatment and a plastic leg band as part of the sanctuary's study of migration habits.

Jill Kinmont, 19-year-old skiing star, on muscle-strengthening teeter board at California Rehabilitation Center, Santa Monica, where she is being treated for paralysis resulting from ski accident last winter. She was regarded as almost certain to earn a place on the 1956 Olympic team before her neck was broken in a race last January. Undaunted by the fact her legs are still numb, she is sure she will ski again and has as her goal a spot on the 1960 Olympics team.

Dear Martha

AM 13 and like a boy a few years older. We went together from May until July when he met another girl and we suddenly broke up. He is still going with her but when she isn't around he treats me the way he used to. My friends say I am better looking than she, They say if I tried I could get him back. Should I? Please don't tell me to LOOKING FOR Cynics will say "All's fair" and if you can get him away from someone else, power to you. But I'm not so sure they're right. Maybe you could

EVERYDAY observation and common-sense suggest these:
Don't live with them, or near them. Don't accept their well-meant and generous offer of the other half of their duplex, or a suggestion that they will give you half of their home property and let you build beside them. The financial advantage isn't worth the risk.
Don't start with a chip on your shoulder.
Don't get into the habit of squabbling and denouncing each other when the in-laws come up as a topic of conversation. Have get him if you tried. But do you really want to play tug-ofwar with the poor guy in the middle? Don't you think he has something to say about this? If he chooses to go with her, my suggestion is to try to get together enough pride to walk away and find yourself another beau.

Dear Martha:

I AM A HIGH SCHOOL FRESHMAN. The girls I run around with date seniors. A senior boy asked me to go steady with him and I accepted but my mother made me his ring because she said I was too young. Do you think I'm too young?

Yes, Judy, I do. I don't know your age, but I think your freshman year in school is pretty early to start dating one boy exclusively instead of getting around and meeting and going with other boys and girls. I especially think a freshman is too young to be going steady with a senior.

IN ANSWER TO Marilyn: Don't start giving the poor guy such a rush that he'll run the other way. Wait a week and if he doesn't call, you could send him an invitation to a party-not, however, an invitation to take you out. That's his privilege. If he doesn't accept, or if he does come and you don't hear from him again, better let the matter drop.

This is a good time to entertain the crowd with a scavenger hunt. Send for Martha Carr's leaflet giving directions. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

sit down and try to help entertain their friends When parents start criticizing their teen-ager's friends they are building the wall between the two generations just

IT'S WISE for parents to save "no" for important matters and to let the teen-agers have their way when there is nothing important at stake. This saves a lot of wear and tear on the parents and also makes the "no" seem more reasonable.

Instead of striving for a teen-ager's approval parents should try to merit his respect. Approval can be bought by constant giving in but respect has to be earned by wisdom, fairness and patience.

Privacy is important to teen-agers and parents should refrain from asking, "Who was that you were talking to on the telephone?" "Why don't you want to go to the party?" The fewer prying questions parents ask the more likely they are to be told the important things.

Parents of teen-agers should remember that they are just as frustrating to their teen-agers as their teen-agers are to them.

THE KILLING of Stanford White, a nationally famous architect, by Harry K. Thaw, Pittsburgh playboy who had inherited $40,000,000, on the opening night of the roof theater of the old Madison Square Garden, which which rocked-well, anyway, titillatedthe nation, a half century ago. It echoed on down through the Sunday supplements, constantly recalled by Thaw's journeys in and out of insane asylums, Broadway night-club brawls, and other newsworthy items, until Thaw's death in 1947 at the

His former wife, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, a chorus girl over whom he killed White, still lingers on, after a long time career in vaudeville, night clubs and burlesque on the strength of the notoriety.

Now this yellowed old scandal has been revived by Twentieth Century-Fox in a CinemaScope drama called "THE GIRL IN THE RED VELVET SWING" and is on view at the ST. LOUIS THEATER. We haven't pored over the records of the trial, but we have an impression that things have been considerably tidled up in the telling. Joan Collins, the English actress, noted for her bust measurements about as much as anything, plays Evelyn with such a wide-eyed innocence that one cam only conclude her involvement in the thing was just an unfortunate mistake. Ray Milland does White with considerable starchiness, as sort of a misled saint in white tie and tails. Farley Granger gives some wild instability to Thaw, although he is much younger, in appearance, that is, than Thaw's age at the

I think they would better have left this in the files. Although it gives us some glimpse of the life led by play-boys and chorus beauties on Broadway around 1905, I don't think the scientific research is justified by the utter dullness of sitting through this for almost two hours.

Sometimes someone puts a thermostat in such a location that it keeps being warmed by a register, radiator or even a wall lamp. With this set-up you are likely to have a cool house a lot of the time.

NEW HEAT CONTROLS ELIMINATE GUESSWORK FROM MEAT COOKING. MEAT THERMOMETER TELLS EXACTLY WHEN A ROAST PORK OR ROAST OF BEEF IS CORRECTLY COOKED ACCORDING TO TASTE.

HEAT control, possible today with modern kitchen ranges, is not only a convenience but often an insurance against food waste through over-baking or cooking on top of the stove. The fine ranges are equipped with oven regulators which can be set at the desired temperature. If the range isn't modern, then you will find a portable oven thermometer, the next best thing. In any case you will like to have a meat thermometer especially when it comes to beef and pork.

The thermometer is inserted in the thickest portion of the roast so that it does not touch the bone, and you will know just when the beef is rare, medium or well done, according to your choice. It also tells you when pork is ready to be removed from the oven, of course, always well done.

THE NEWER dial-type thermometers are easier to read than the older models, oblong in shape. For rare beef the temperature should read 140 degrees F., 160 degrees F. for well done. Time of roasting will of course depend largely upon the size of the roast.

Fresh pork must be thoroughly cooked and this means allowing the temperature to rise as high as 185 degrees F. Cured pork, or what we usually call pork, or what we usually call ham, will be ready to take out of the oven when the tempera-ture reaches 150 degrees. The about 170 degrees. This is also true of Canadian-style bacon. By the way, if your range does not have a timer that can be set, a minute-minder limited to one hour on the dial can be reset so that you will have some idea about when you should begin to look at the meat thermometer seriously.

Roast Pork.

A pork roast of any type should be roasted in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until the meat thermometer registers 185 degrees. A loin roast weighing about five pounds will take about 3½ hours. The same length of time should be allowed for shoulders, boned or unboned. Pork will carve better if allowed to stand 15 minutes after removal from the utes after removal from the Thermostat Troubles.

We find that the trouble with many home heating systems is not that they don't give off plenty of heat but that the heating is uneven.

One minute the house is too cool and the next it's too warm, but in nine times out of 10 it's simply because the thermostat is not properly located.

If you have a thermostat set on a wall facing an outside door, each time the door is opened, a cold draft is going to hit the thermostat and that means the thermostat is going to set the furnace to work delivering more heat. The final NEW YORK.

N Wednesday I had a busy day, starting at the office at 9:30 with a meeting with a group of people and followed by a private interview. Then
I had to hurry to meet some other people at the United Nations for lunch at noon.
In fact, there were two groups from out of town, one from Connecticut and the
Mrs. Roosevelt

from Connecticut and the Mrs. Roosevelt other from California, and both were making their first visit to the United Nations building. They also attended some of the meetings in the afternoon.

I am always interested to see the effect of a first visit to the United Nations headquarters.

As a rule, people who have never been to the United Nations do not give much thought to this particular landmark in New York City. But once they go and see it and look at it with a critical eye, and listen to some of the things that go on inside the building, their imagination is fired by what is represented there and they at once want to know more and express a desire to do something

There are a lot of thermostats kicking around that are so old and worn they just can't be expected to provide even heat for the house. The best thing to do with these is replace them. The thermostat operates on low voltage and if you shut off the power switch to the burner it's a simple matter to replace the thermostat or move it to some more favorable location. THIS IS ENCOURAGING to anyone who feels as I do that the U.N. is the only machinery we have to help us gain a peaceful world.

My mail brings me many and varied challenges. The last one was a letter from an Indian reservation, in which the writer bitterly complained that I talked about the rights of people in other parts of the world but never gave any thought to the fact that we here in the United States were paying very little attention to the original inhabitants of this country—the American Indians.

RECENTLY I received from the Association on American Indian Affairs a plea to beg the public to glance at the In-dian side in the situation that faces the Indian tribes today.

The Federal Administrative policy, as we all know, is to terminate the American Indian tribe as quickly as possible. Everybody has read articles giving the Indian Bureau's position and it can be heard over Indians themselves think? This is never brought to the atten-tion of the public, and yet we should apply the principle of "consent of the governed" to the Indians as well as to other Americans.

These 400,000 original Americans deserve a hearing. More attention on the part of all Americans should be given to the way in which certain desirable ends from the Federal viewpoint are being pushed—action that seems most undesirable by the American Indian,

This was the bidding when Great Britain held the East-West cards:
North East South West Pass Pass 3V. 3 APASS 3V.T. (final bid)
It was rather surprising that the American North did not think enough of his hand (or perhaps thought too much of it) to open with a pre-emptive spade bid, whereas the British West did not hesitate to overcall three hearts with three spades—but, then, this was a surprising match in many different ways. In any event, the ferent ways. In any event, the bidding went as recorded above, and the effect was to put East in a three-no-trump contract that should have been made. South opened his fourthhighest heart, and declarer (East) won with the iack. The single-king, and when North took the trick and returned the spade 10, declarer was given a graphic picture of two suits, spades and hearts. North was now known to have held seven spades and, of course, South must have had six hearts for his shutout bid.

Armed with this knowledge, declarer should have had a pretty good idea of how to handle the minor suits, but he slipped. Winning the spade return in the dummy (after discarding a club from his own hand), he led a low club from the board—and never recovered from that indiscretion. Indeed, he went down two.

Since East could not have protected himself against a bad break in clubs if North had had the length in that suit over dummy, he should have seen the wisdom of providing against club length in the South hand, and the way to do that was to cash a club honor before leading away from the second honor, meanwhile playing high clubs from the closed hand to maintain perfect communication with dummy. That done, East would have found it easy to collect the necessary nine tricks.

Weekly Report On Public Health By J. Earl Smith, M.D.

St. Louis Health Commissioner

RABID dogs continue to run the streets and alleys of St. Louis. Their presence is confirmed by positive laboratory reports—16 so far this year.

There is little, if any, excuse for the continued existence of this dread disease when measures for its control and even its complete eradication are known and are comparatively easy to carry out. Vaccinating our dogs each year will break up this sinister chain and wipe rabies from our community. It is toward this goal that Mayor Tucker has proclaimed Oct. 31 to Nov. 5 as Rabies Control Week.

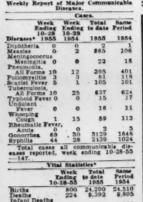

YEAR IN AND YEAR OUT
IN St. Louis an average of 2000 dog bite cases—mostly small children—register at the Pasteur Clinic maintained by the City Health Division. Last year
500 of these dog bite victims had to take the life saving but sometimes, though rarely, dangerous Pasteur injections.

NO LONGER is it necessary to fear rabies. We can prevent it from ever occurring. Experience has shown that if 70 per cent of the dog population is vaccinated rabies can be controlled. Veterinary authorities also recommend vaccination for also recommend vaccination fo puppies as early as two months of age.

For years now we have been immunizing babies in the first year of life against diphtheria, year of life against diphtheria, whooping cough and smallpox, with the result that many doctors come in contact with these once dreaded diseases of childhood only through their text books. We now have just as effective an immunizing agent for dogs and the same thing can be accomplished in rables control.

In the meantime, before rables becomes only a frightening memory, what can be done in the event of a dog bite? The most important thing is to identify the dog so it can be quarantined for 11 days under daily inspection of a competent veterinarian. Then go immediately to your family physician or the Municipal Pasteur Clinic.

AN PRESIDENT ? Answer to Question 1.

Answer to Question 1.

If would take a great change in our public psychology—both masculine and feminine. Older countries accept female rulers because of a reverence for royalty that we do not have—a reverence inspired by the many truly great kings and queens of the past. We do not have these traditions; and, while there are many women who doubtless would make excellent presidents, our conservatism will probably prevent election of a woman president for a long time to come.

Answer to Question 2.

Answer to Question 2.

Answer to Question 2.

Yes, according to Dr. Wendell Johnson. He finds from a three-year study of 400 children, parents are often perfectionists. They force the children to try to speak better than they can. This causes overconsciousness and starts children stuttering. Dr. J. advises parents to "make speaking fun for the child. Give him time to talk, get your eyes off his mouth, and pay attention to conditions which make him unsure of himself."

Answer to Question 3.

Answer to Question 3.
Bad psychology and bad business. Whether due to heredity or environment, boys from well-to-do classes rise to distinct success in business—and every field—more often than boys "blessed" with poverty. Psy-chologist Ross Stagner has chologist Ross Stagner has given personality tests to large groups of students and found that those from low economic status are much more nervous, subject to inferiority and introversion, moody and seclusive socially.

That black week of 1929 was only four days long — it ran from Monday, Oct. 28 through Thursday, Oct. 31. The exchange had to close Friday and Saturday to let the jaded clerks catch up with the bookkeeping.

Record Transactions.

In that week sales set an all time weekly high at 43,499,540 shares, a total never approached since then. October, 1929 was the biggest month in stock exchange history with sales of 141,668,410 shares.

On Monday, Oct. 28, 1929, industrials fell to 255.75, off 42.22 and closed at 260.64, off 38.33 on 9,213,000 shares. That was the record break for all time.

On Tuesday Oct. 29, 1929, industrials fell to 212.33, off 48.31 points and closed at 230.07, off 30.57 on 16.410,030 shares, the points and closed at 230.07, off 30.57 on 16,410,030 shares, the biggest day ever seen on the market.

She and Walter had driven out of town to a small inn for dinner. It was pleasantly rustic and in the purple twilight the scent of trees and blossoms was poignant.

Walter said, "It won't be seen the said the said.

H E patted her hand. "I'll tell you when the facts are substantiated, when I have the whole story. Meanwhile, we may as well enjoy ourselves. I have tickets for a new play tonight. Third row, center."

His statement was so typical. Walter Symington not only enjoyed doing things, he wanted to do them in the right way. He insisted upon the best table in restaurants, theater tickets never beyond the fifth row, dated champagne. These things were as important to him as wearing the correct necktic. Molly looked ahead to their life together musingly. It would be easy, well ordered, agreeable. More than that Walter was understanding. He knew how she felt about city life.

There would always be little side trips to the country or the mountains to relieve the pressures she disliked. When she was with him this kind of life seemed perfectly acceptable to her. It was only the disturbing memory of Matt Brady that had ever given her cause to doubt.

Dear Uncle Ray: I want to join the Uncle Ray Scrapbook Club, and I enclose a stamped envelope carefully addressed to myself. Please send me a Membership Certificate, a leaflet telling how to make a Corner Scrapbook of my own, and a printed dasign to paste on the cover of my scrapbook.

"Taught to the tune of a hick-ory stick."

Big changes have come to education during the present century. Teachers, principals and school superintendents have done a great deal to make school life pleasant for the pupils.
